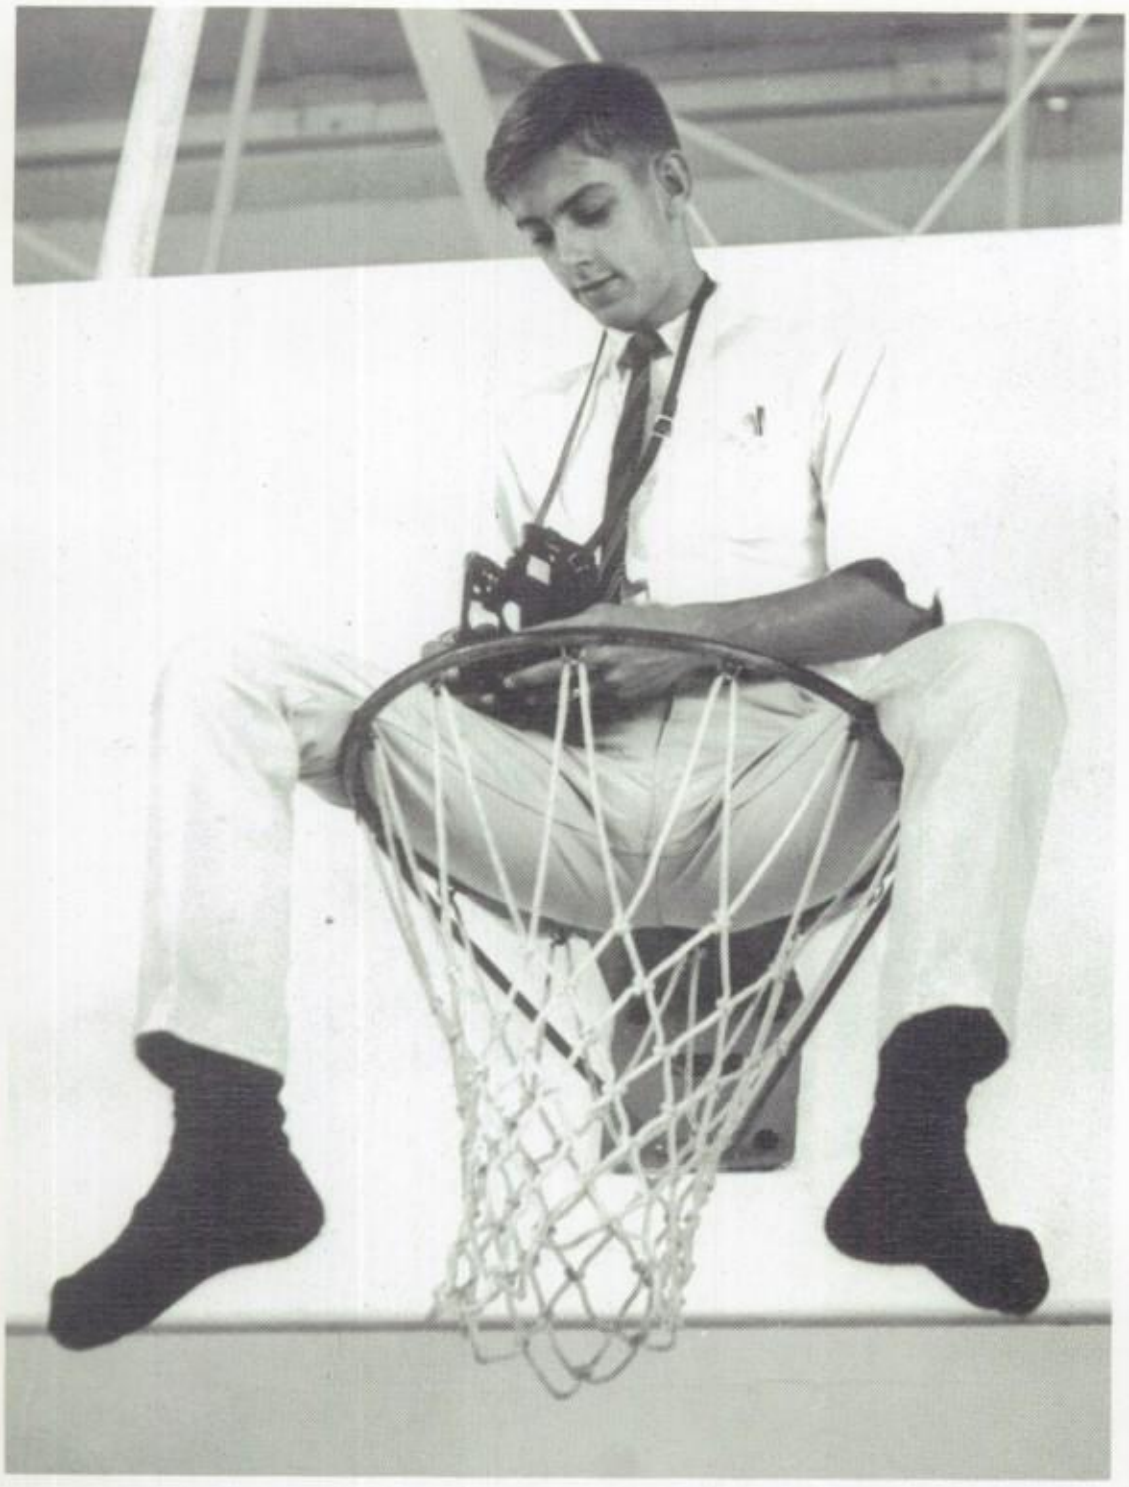
FCHS

at Work

The primary reason for school is to provide a place for learning. School is a place where you learn to live with others and learn skills necessary to perform as a member of the human community. There are other types of school work besides academic. There are sports, the annual staff, the newspaper staff, the band, and numerous other activities that require patience, determination, and plain hard work.



Jeff Wood, risking life and limb, takes pictures for the Falcon Crier.

Members of the Journalism class work together to produce a finished product.

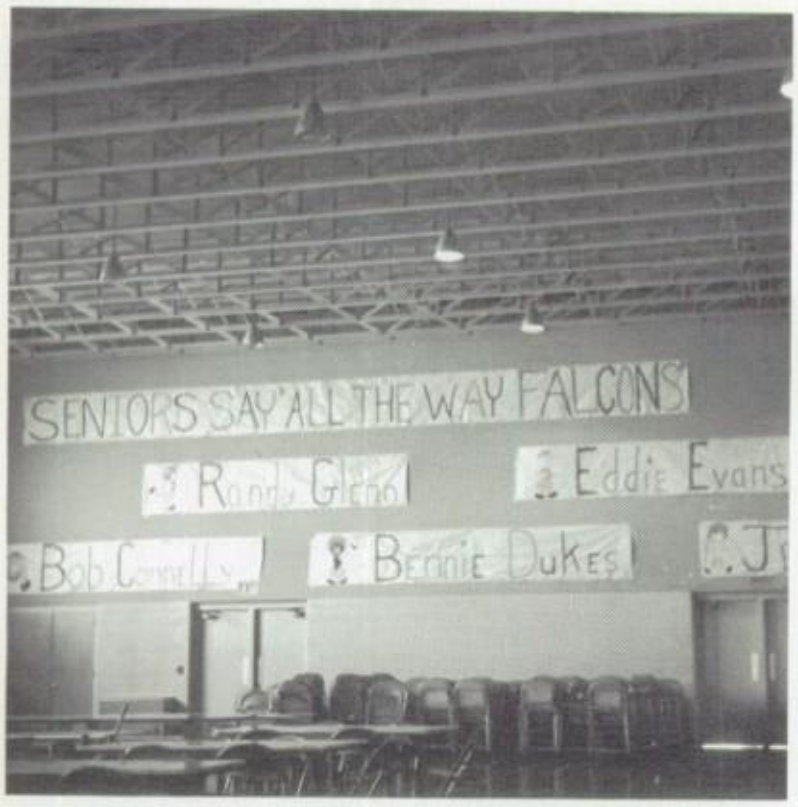
preographical entertainment at our football games.

FCHS at Play



One of the most constructive outlets for activity is school spirit. These posters show the superb school spirit of the FCHS elite: the Senior Class of 1966!

As man does not live by bread alone, neither does man live by work alone. To be a well rounded person one needs to devote some time to relaxing, being with your friends or just "goofing off." Too much work does more than make "Jack a dull boy." It retards the development of a pleasing personality and it does not give one the chance to develop relationships between himself and others. Learning how to live and work with others is a far more important lesson than any of you receive in the classroom.

"A pretty face makes the labors of work trifles and the hours of work mere seconds." Josef Propea

Phyllis Selph, Linda Jackson, Sharon Heiser and Jan Buegler, four of our Falcon cheerleaders, show off their gymnastic skills.

Mike Caldwell and Jim Lampru star in Sophomore English's production of "Julius Caesar." "Et tu, Brute?" "No, I et already."

This scene illustrates the close, warm, human relationships that exist between students at FCHS.

Dedication

Mrs. Harper is an unusally fine, outstanding teacher. Many are the students who have come to her for advice and few are the students who have come away unsatisfied. She is a mature person and is able to impart this maturity to other people. Mrs. Harper is helpful to anyone with a problem or project. She contributes her time and energy to any cause, extra-curricular or otherwise. Mrs. Harper's personality is extremely pleasing. She executes her duties with skill, care, and deliberation. She is a joy to see and a pleasure to know. The FALCON STAFF, with great pleasure, dedicates this year's FALCON to Mrs. Harper.

Mrs. Harper helpfully checks up on some books for a confused student.

Mrs. Harper types up some card catalogue cards.

Joaquina Hill and Ernest Lane, Valedictorian and Salutatorian, were this year's only National Merit Scholarship Winners.

Mrs. Robinson, our sponser, looks upon the mess in the Annual Room.

Our Business Managers, Elaine Yu and Bobbi Sadler, count their embezzlements.

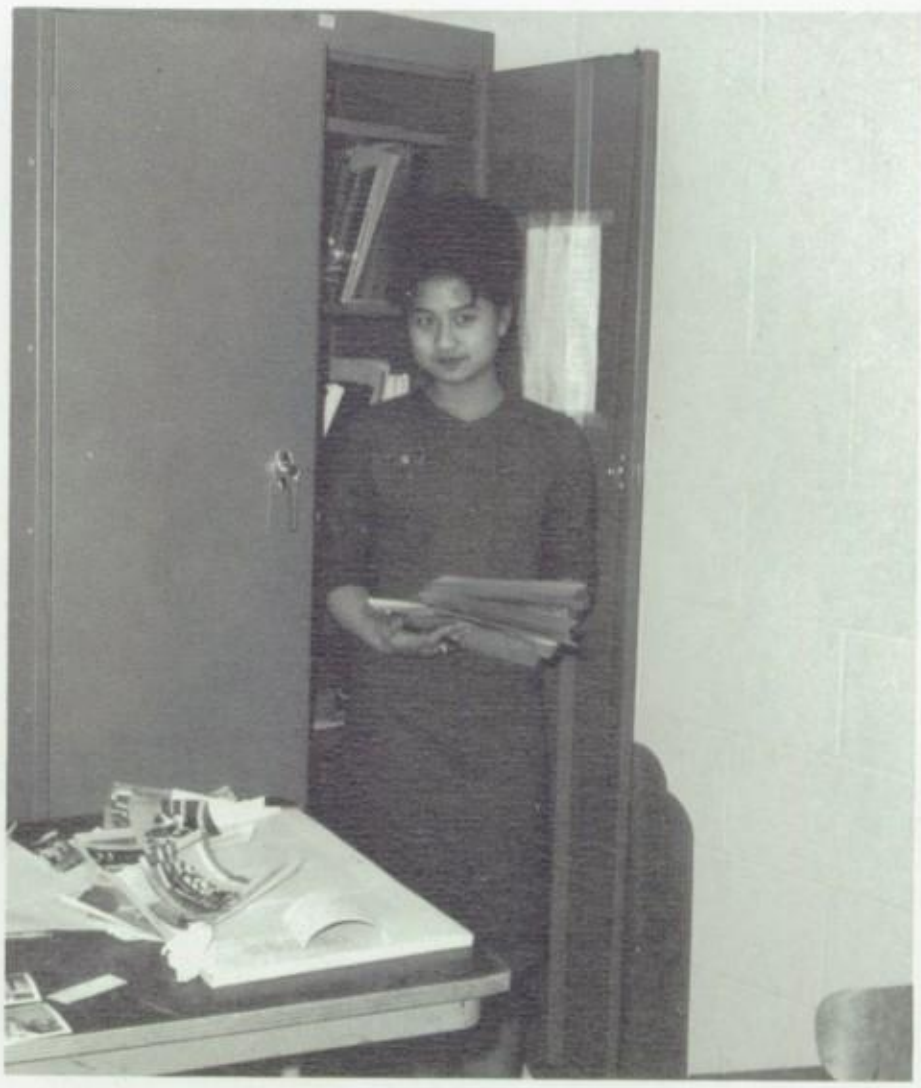
Our "hard-working" Co-editor, Carole Lampru, pretends she is working.

Staff

This picture of Jeff Wood, Photographer, is good, mainly because he didn't take it.

We woke Ed Phillips, Jr. High Editor, long enough to take this picture.

Beth "What! Me work?" Tallon, Sophomore-Freshman Editor, despite all, gets her layout done—two weeks late.



:nny Ahn, Junior-Senior Editor, is always working—until she ıinks of something else to do.

First Row: Elaine Yu and Bobbi Sadler, Business Managers; Joseph Neary, Annual Editor; Carole Lampru, Annual Co-Editor; Gale Selego, Newspaper Editor; Edwina Barnett, Newspaper Co-Editor. Our Senior football players have helped make the 1965 season one of our best ever. Bennie Dukes, Boston Doyle, Bob Connelly, Randy Glenn, and Jerry Sidio.

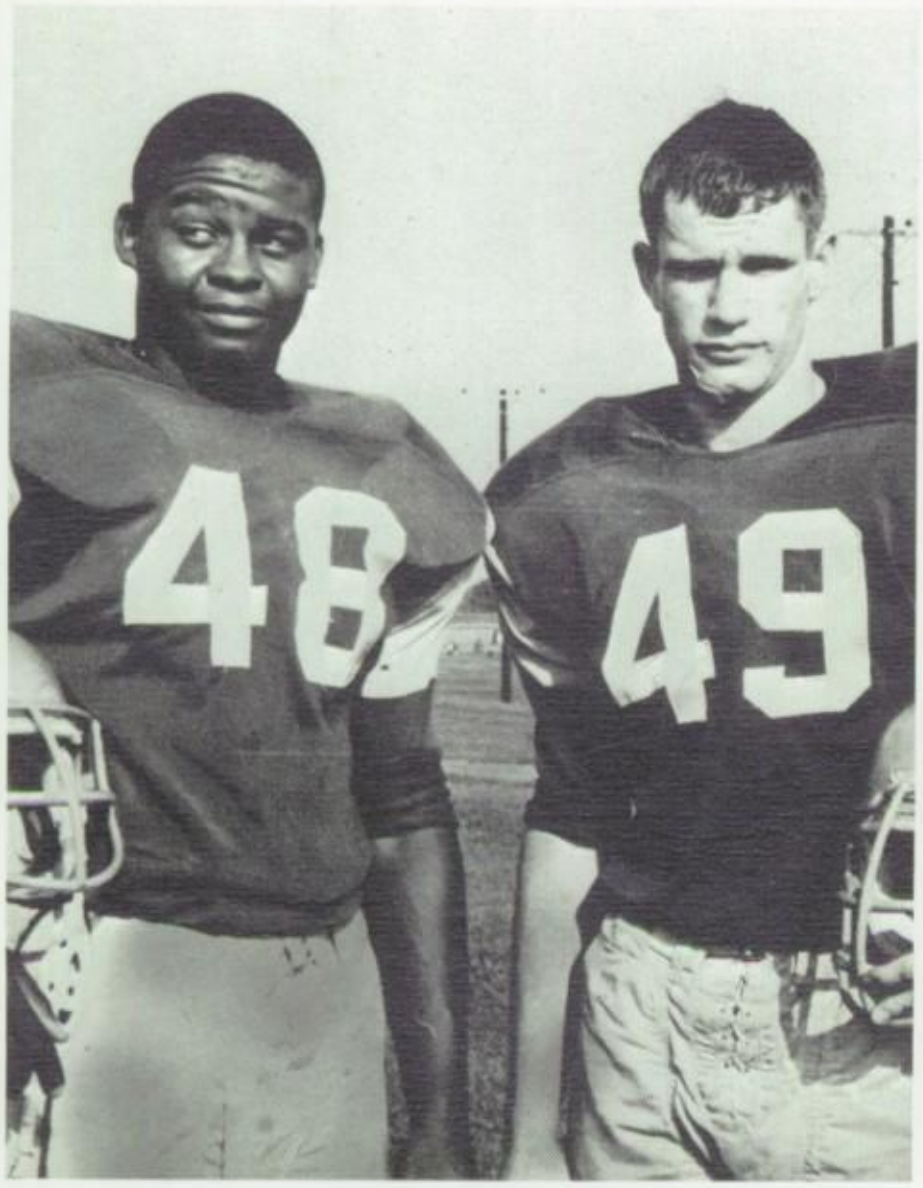
Jerry Sidio demonstrates the "ability" of Falcons to be ready for anything as he quickly repairs his helmet for action.

Bennie Dukes, ball in hand, makes ready to sprint down the field for another Falcon touchdown.



Co-Captains for the 1965 Falcons are Bennie Dukes and Jerome Sidio.

Coaches Marshall Patterson and Houston Mills lead our team to Victory.

Junior Halfback Terry Dempsey runs through the secondary for a big gain.
